From Worship Service THIS WEEK

We do not walk through the wilderness alone.

Let's think about these things this coming week ---- let's ponder on these questions:

1. What wildernesses are you or the people in your lives experiencing right now, and can you see God at work?
2. How might we be tempted to rely on our own power and comfort in times of pain, suffering, and uncertainty?
3. What difference does it make knowing that we don't walk in the wilderness alone?
4. What comfort and strength can we find knowing that God's presence is always with us, just as it was with Jesus?

If you haven't caught the drift yet, Church family, we don't have to face the wilderness alone, you can walk through the Terrible into the Beautiful, because God is with us every step of the way. And just as Jesus endured, we too can endure, knowing that the terrible and the beautiful can both be redeemed through God's hands. So let's walk through the wilderness together, empowered by the Spirit, led by God's Hands knowing that we are not abandoned.
